

A GREAT OUTLET

Worksheet

1 Look back at what you posted in the member's area for the very first lesson we did to remind yourself about your dog's preferences.

If you missed it, look at lesson 1 and do that work now.

2 Try out the suggestions for all parts of prey drive that your dog seems to enjoy. Keep notes on what happens.

3 Once you have one or two games that your dog seems to love, you can start to add in the release cue that you trained from lesson 5.

Follow the steps from lesson 5 to help you work on having your dog wait to be released to play their new game.

You don't have to do it every time but it all builds on helping your dog learn that you are an important part them getting to do things that they love.

You support them and give them access to things that they enjoy - rather than try to stop them.
